START EARLY

Start in Class 11 to build an advantage

- Nearly two years to build foundations across all five CLAT areas.
- More time for reading habits, conceptual understanding, mocks, speed, and accuracy.
- Earlier preparation creates room to identify weaknesses without board-exam pressure.

WHAT CLAT TESTS

CLAT tests application under time pressure

Read

Read a passage and understand what it says.

Identify

Identify what the question is really asking.

Apply

Apply the right idea and decide quickly, not just recall facts.

STARTING POINT

Starting from scratch is completely workable

Begin with the basics

Start with the basics rather than assumed prior knowledge.

Build gradually

Increase question difficulty as concepts become comfortable.

Apply with support

Build capability through guided application, handouts, and practice.

REASONING

Reasoning improves through application, not tricks

- Legal and Logical Reasoning require using ideas on real questions.
- Discuss why the right option works and why tempting alternatives fail.
- For long passages, learn what to focus on, skim, infer, and locate.

SPEED WITH CONTROL

Build speed without sacrificing accuracy

1

Protect comprehension

Speed is useful only when comprehension stays intact.

2

Read efficiently

Practise reading efficiently rather than forcing yourself to rush.

3

Return to evidence

When stuck between two options, return to the exact wording and evidence.

THE PAPER

Know the paper before you plan your time

2 hours · 120 questions

Roughly one minute per question on average. Section demands differ, so pacing and question selection matter.

Typical CLAT section-wise question ranges.

Mocks are feedback loops, not just scorecards

Take

Take a full-length, properly timed mock.

Analyse

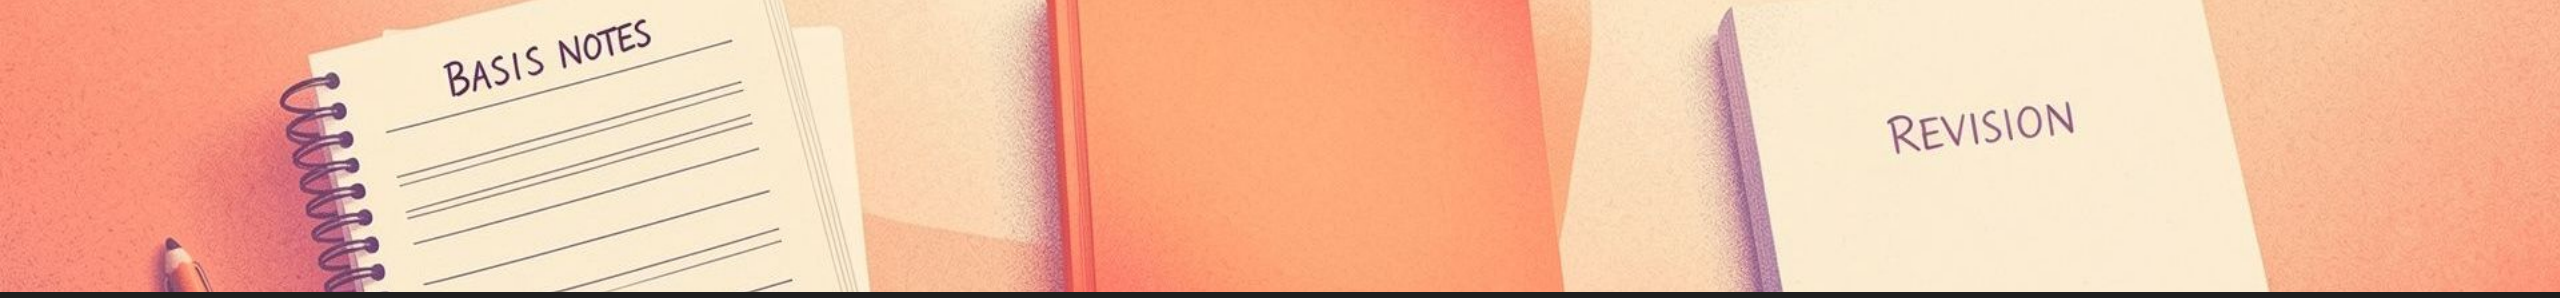

Analyse where time, accuracy, and question selection broke down.

Carry forward

Carry one specific improvement into the next test.

See the complete mock-test guidance in the CLAT FAQ

KEEP OPTIONS OPEN

Keep more law-school options open

- CLAT foundations overlap with AILET, LNAT, SLAT, MHCET Law, CUET-UG for Law, NMIMS-LAT, and CULEE.
- Check each exam's latest notification, eligibility, participating colleges, and admission process before applying.
- Prepare strategically for CLAT while protecting multiple routes to law school.
